

The MSPress Journal

Vol 7 | No. 1 | 2020

Letter from the Editors

Dear reader,

Welcome to the latest issue of the Medical Student Press Journal! It is our honor to share the work of fellow medical students with you. This collection of reflective essays, poetry, and research explores diverse topics in medicine.

In this issue, an author shares her experience crossing language barriers in patient care. Another piece reflects on medicine as inspired by the writings of Mark Twain. An original review article details new developments in the management of Familial Chylomicronemia Syndrome. A poem contemplates the aspects of medicine which we can only learn on the wards, and another poem explores the art of diagnosis as a journey for both patient and physician. A narrative piece tells the story of a man in hospice care who embraces life, even in death.

We hope you will gain new insight and inspiration from these works. A huge thank you to the authors, editors, and reviewers who have contributed to the creation of this issue.

Sincerely,

Pallavi Dev

Medical Student Press, Associate Editor

Brienna Milleson

Medical Student Press, Associate Editor
